EARN YOUR HEALTH CARE ADMINISTRATION DEGREE WITH CHAMPLAIN COLLEGE ONLINE

Our online Bachelor of Science in Health Care Administration challenges you to build on what you know as a healthcare professional, pushing you to think about what can be done differently and more efficiently. It's anchored in real world experiences with instructors who are also healthcare practitioners, and who are passionate about their area of expertise and in helping you succeed. They'll ensure that you are familiar with relevant laws and regulations that govern the health care industry, know about the latest health information technologies, understand what it takes to improve individual and organizational performance, and make you aware of current federal mandates and their implications. Because this online degree is built for individuals currently working in healthcare, you and your classmates will learn from each other by sharing best practices and diverse perspectives. You'll build a network of relationships that will benefit you throughout your career.

AS A HEALTH CARE ADMINISTRATION STUDENT YOU WILL:

- > Learn the organizational elements, structure, performance, terminology, and delivery modalities for US and global healthcare systems.
- > Analyze the structure and interdependence of healthcare system issues using critical thinking to formulate innovative system designs that improve healthcare delivery.
- > Exhibit and nurture, through action and affect, the attributes that facilitate effective teamwork, including those that create cross-functionality, and are manifestations of Internet-based collaboration.
- > Maintain accurate financial records, prepare budgets, analyze variance and assess financial opportunities and risks, making recommendations for action based upon organizational goals.
- > Perform ongoing critical self-reflection from academic and work-based learning experiences, articulate the personal learning and growth that has resulted from those experiences, and integrate this into action plans for future professional growth, in support of the advancement of healthcare systems.
